A member of a prominent family in Osceola County and greater Orlando, FL, Duke Bronson is the grandson of a Florida state congressman and the great grandson of a Florida state senator. His great grandfather also played a prominent role in the sale of family land near Orlando to Walt Disney that would ultimately serve as the location for Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom.

Duke Bronson attended middle school at the Lake Highland Preparatory School, where he competed as both a baseball and football player. He subsequently played multiple sports as a high school student at the private Christian school The First Academy. His performance in the classroom earned him distinction as an AP scholar.

Since graduating from The First Academy in 2018, Mr. Bronson has been studying agriculture business management as an undergraduate at the University of Florida in Gainesville. In his free time, he enjoys hunting for deer, duck, quail, and turkey as well as flats, offshore, and spear fishing.
